Scatter the gems of the beautiful.
By the brook let them fall.
The rose is on the garden wall;
And the vine on the garden wall;
Cover the rough and rude of earth
With a vale of tears and flowers;
With the deepest, softest, and up
The march of bairns hours.
Scatter the gems of the beautiful
In the holly shrub of home!
Let the pure, the fair, and the graceful there
In the temple of the country.
Not a trace of desolation.
In the temple of the heart.
But gather about the earth its gems
Of nature's products.

Scatter the gems of the beautiful
In the temple of the uplifted sky.
And howered the wimpled soft
When he bade a temple for himself,
He reared each arch in symmetry
And curved each gable in grace.

Scatter the gems of the beautiful
In the depths of the human soul;
They bud and blossom, and bear the fruit,
Plant with the river of charity
The portals of the temple, O,
And the fair and proud about its path
In Paradise still bloom.
